

What is it?

Getting Ready for Life at College is specifically designed for students with disabilities, their teachers, families, and counselors who want to foster successful, empowered transitions from high school into post-secondary education. Our guide covers three major areas of transition: Getting Ready for College, Life at College, and Life after College. This interactive guide includes worksheets, step-by-step lists, and activities that foster a deeper understanding of the topics. Our guide will drive critical steps in your student's success story.

Topics focus on the unique barriers faced by students with disabilities, including:

- Deciding if and how to disclose your disability
- Managing time, money and relationships
- Registering at the Office for Disability Services
- The differences between high school and college
- Living independently
- Finding a caregiver
